Red Feather™ Viburnum was selected from a crop of seedling Arrowwoods at Johnson's Nursery, Inc.™ in the early 1980s. It stood out because of its beautiful, red, new foliage. As the new foliage ages, green veins appear on the red surfaces, giving the leaves a colorful, feather-like design. Once leaf expansion ceases, the leaves take on a solid, lustrous green color.

Red Feather™ has an outstanding, long lasting, maroon fall color in Southeast Wisconsin. Most importantly, its autumn color is consistent from year to year. Most seedlings and other Viburnum dentatum cultivars have not been nearly as consistent.
